Stolen ladder

To the Editor:

The weekend of June 19 and 20, the Willits Otters held their annual swim meet. The school district and city graciously lets us use the pool for that weekend, and the Otters are responsible for the pool during that time. Sometime after Sunday at 5 pm when the meet was done and the pool grounds locked, it is assumed someone jumped the fence and stole one of the ladders used in the pool. This is a ladder that cost upwards of $1,000. As it was stolen during the Otters time, we feel responsible for replacing it.

I want whoever stole this to know that you have stolen from the kids of this community. You might have felt this would fall under the jurisdiction of the city or school district but it does not. The Otters have agreed we should replace this. This is a non-profit organization that operates on the dues collected from the families. This is not subsidized by the school district or any public program. It operates completely on fundraising and money collected from the swimmers. If you know of the whereabouts of this ladder and would like to return it, please, drop it off at the pool.

Melissa Perez, board president, Willits Otters

Editor's Note: Anybody who wants to help with the replacement costs for the ladder for the city pool can send a donation to Willits Otters, P.O. Box 1445, Willits CA 95490.

Down the garden path

To the Editor:

August 26, 2017. The annual Garden Party at Phil and Kathy Shuster's, 1660 Center Valley Road.

A party for sure with live music, delicious food and drink, and live and silent auction items, but it should also be remembered that this is a major fundraiser for our schools. Event co-producers, Willits Educational Foundation and Willits Rotary Club, make sure all proceeds benefit art, music and libraries for schools within Willits Unified School District.

Open to everyone, it's important to know that tickets will not be sold at the door this year. Sometimes there's a tendency to let things like this slide, but in this instance that would be unwise. The pre-sale ticket limit has been set at 400. Once they're gone, it will be too late. Don't delay - contact any WEF member or Willits Rotary Club member now. Or call Warren Lewis at 459-4429.

Believe it or not, tickets are still just $20 for tasty small-plate treats before or after you've enjoyed that incredible stroll through the Shuster garden.

Gail Richards, Willits

Wonderful entertainment

To the Editor:

I was recently out of town. Upon my return, I read Carlin Diamond's "Letter to the Editor" in Willits Weekly's June 15, 2017 edition, regarding what a delight the play "Grace and Glorie" was. I am pleased Carlin took the time to write to Willits Weekly in time for my husband and me to attend Friday night's performance before my husband went out of town Sunday afternoon.

I enjoyed the play so very much that I wanted to see it performed again. I was willing to go by myself. However, two friends went with me for my second viewing on Sunday at the matinee. Our friends, too, loved the play. One friend's only complaint was, "You didn't warn us we needed to bring Kleenex!"

The Willits Community Theatre has my wholehearted support in their worthwhile endeavors creating wonderful entertainment for our little community!

Patricia Wilson, Willits

Thank you

To the Editor:

A huge thank you to the community from the Willits Center for the Arts. Our Y'Art Sale last weekend raised over $2,780! It was a huge organizational effort by Emmy and Bill Good, June Ruckman, Jerry Albright, Sandy Strong, Ann and Jon Maglente, Ursula Partch, Carole Aleshire, Barbara Willens, Lynne Whiting-Robertson, Jennie Jergensen and Gary Martin.

Nancy Reed kept us cool with lemonade. We had wonderful donations from Patrick Charlson, Lisa Montez, Karen Gridley, Emmy Good and many others. Thank you to Mike Griggs, Sr. of Sparetime Supply who loaned us a great temporary fence to secure all the Y'Art Sale goodies.

Mendocino County grand jury report on elections

The Mendocino County grand jury 2016-17 released five reports over the last week, titled, "Elections Redux," "Formula Business Restriction - Nimby Overreaction?," "Planning and Building - Code Enforcement Division," "Health & Human Services - Another Look at Family and Children's Services," and "Mendocino Coast and Parks District and Their Field of Dreams."

Willits Weekly is reprinting the "Elections Redux" grand jury report, released June 22, 2017, in the grand jury's own words and formatting style (almost in full: those who'd like to see footnotes, a glossary, and information about which officials must respond to this report, should visit www.mendocinocounty.org/home/showdocument?id=9309).

Willits Weekly strongly agrees with the grand jury's finding that "lack of timely [election] results frustrates candidates and voters" and its recommendation that the county should "change the current ballot counting procedures for more timely results."

- Jennifer Poole, editor, Willits Weekly

Elections Redux

SUMMARY

The Mendocino County voters can be relieved to know that every possible attempt is made to count their votes. Many manual procedures are in place because some voters fail to follow ballot instructions. The Registrar of Voters is determined to ensure accuracy and accountability for election results. Due to changes in voting procedure, 80% of voters are now obliged to vote by mail. As a result, the actual final tally is delayed for up to 30 days after an election. Both the public and elected officials find the delay unacceptable.

Reporting intermediate vote counts could cost $5,000 each and any improvement in the speed of the final count will require new expenditures for equipment and additional temporary hires to count mail-in ballots before Election Day. For example, 21,700 mail-in ballots were available for counting prior to November 6, 2016 Election Day. While the Registrar had 10 days prior to Election Day to count them, approximately only 6,000 were counted by Election night.

It is clear to the Grand Jury that election counting procedures need to change. This will either be forced on the County by public opinion or the implementation of State law.

BACKGROUND

The 2016-17 Mendocino County Grand Jury received a number of complaints about the election observation process during the June 7, 2016 Primary Election and about the continual lack of timeliness for the reporting of election results. Pursuant to Elections Code §15104(b) the Grand Jury reviewed the election process in Mendocino County during the November 6, 2016 General Election.

The Grand Jury has reviewed and reported on the County election process in the past and has an ongoing responsibility. Past investigations are from 2004-05, "Report on the County Clerk and Assessor's Office," and 2007-08, "Your Vote Does Count, A Look at Mendocino County Voting." Grand Jury reports are available online at <http://www.co.mendocino.ca.us/grandjury>.

APPROACH

During the investigation, the Grand Jury reviewed general election law and, specifically, the General Rules and Election Observation Rights & Responsibilities and other pertinent election documents. The Grand Jury also reviewed newspaper coverage past and current of both the Primary and General Elections, and the September 13, 2016 Board of Supervisors meeting during which the Supervisors interviewed the County Registrar of Voters. The Grand Jury interviewed the complainant, the Registrar of Voters, and members of the Board of Supervisors. The Grand Jury observed the election process on numerous occasions at various locations, and interviewed staff in the Elections office. During the observation of ballot counting, the Grand Jury questioned a voter's eligibility on a ballot.

DISCUSSION

Reporting Election Results

Following the 2000 Presidential Election, Congress passed and President Bush signed into law the Help America Vote Act of 2002 (HAVA), which mandated that states and localities update their voting procedures and equipment. This included requiring that all polling places be accessible to and have specialized equipment for the disabled to vote independently and privately. To decrease the cost of implementing HAVA, California Elections Code §3005 permitted precincts with fewer than 250 registered voters to become mail-in ballot only.

Effective January 1, 2006, the former Registrar of Voters implemented changes to many of this County's voting procedures in line with the updated California election law. Precincts with more than one special district were reorganized, increasing the overall number of precincts from 274 to 388. Precincts with fewer than 250 registered voters became mail-in ballot only, eliminating at that time 28 polling places. Mail-in ballots were preferred for decreased cost, and difficulty in finding polling place workers and locations accessible to disabled voters. Also, expected was an increase in voter participation. For the November 2006 election, approximately 70% of the County's registered voters voted by mail.

Currently there are 250 precincts, 69 of which can vote at 24 polling places located throughout the County. Each polling place can accommodate more than one precinct, with each precinct having its own polling place workers and ballot.

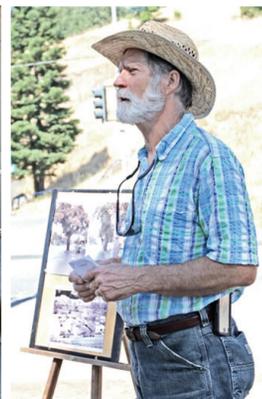

For the November 6, 2016 General Election, 41,566, or 81%, of the 51,035 registered County voters were issued vote-by-mail ballots. 31,729, or 82%, of the 38,730 ballots cast were mail-in ballots. Of these, 21,700 vote-by-mail ballots were received before Election Day, and 10,029 vote-by-mail ballots were received on Election Day. The majority of those, 80%, were dropped off at the Registrar of Voters office or at the polls on Election Day. There were approximately 900 provisional ballots that had to be reviewed and counted manually.

A result of moving from polling place to mail-in balloting is that the reporting of election results is delayed. Ballots completed on voting machines at polling places must be counted by the end of Election Day, making those results available for posting by the end of that day or the next. The counting procedures for mailed provisional ballots, mail-in ballots, and mail-in ballots dropped off at polling places, postpone the availability of results for up to 30 days. This is the time limit imposed by State law for the submission of certified results.

Our County Registrar of Voters policy is to Saturday's memorial service for the cork oaks, counter-clockwise from top right: Dave Watts tells Corky's story; the group poses in front of the Veterans Memorial Hall; cork oak seedlings growing against the fence; before and after photos and flowers; posterboard showing the Caltrans' plan for the Sherwood Road realignment project; and Willits City Councilmember Madge Strong takes a turn in the circle.

Goodbye to Corky and friends

Nurseryman Dave Watts of Sanhedrin Nursery organized a public "memorial service" last Saturday morning for the four cork oak trees unexpectedly taken down by Caltrans two weeks ago on North Main Street.

The group of concerned citizens who came expressed their own opinions, anger and sadness about the loss of the trees, sang a song or two, and heard Watts' imaginative eulogy to "Corky" and his relatives, which Willits Weekly is re-printing below. Watts is also collecting signatures to petition the City of Willits to save the seedlings of the removed cork oak trees.

"[We] realize that the four Quercus suber, cork oak trees, cut down by Caltrans, on North Main Street the week of June 12, cannot be retrieved," the petition begins. "What can be done is to save some of the seedlings from these trees growing near the site and allow them to grow. We urge the Willits City Council to do everything in their power to save these seedlings by working with Caltrans, city staff, the Willits Unified School District, Mendocino County (the owners of the Veterans Memorial Building) and other concerned citizens to save these seedlings."

- Jennifer Poole

Corky's Story

Thank you all for coming to this memorial for Corky and his friends. It means a lot to his children and relatives. I want to share a few thoughts before opening it up for others.

Corky could not use words so he could not tell us his story, so we must piece his story together with what we do know and our imagination.

Thus, Corky was born sometime in the 1920s or 1930s. A photo from the 1920s, when this site was the offices of the California Highway Commission (the precursor to Caltrans) Division 1 Headquarters, shows what may be Corky and his friends as slight sticks, that can barely be seen in the photo.

What maybe what happened is that two emigrant brothers, from Italy or Spain, came to Willits in the early 1900s. They brought to their new country

National Finals Rodeo bound

Hailey Finnegan, a junior at Laytonville High School in California High School Rodeo Association's District 2, recently qualified for the National High School Rodeo Association Finals Rodeo in the barrel racing event. The rodeo will be held July 16 to 22 in Gillette, Wyoming.

Finnegan and her horse, Beach Cat, finished fourth in the state in barrel racing at the CHSRA State Finals, which qualified her to be part of the California team at the national level. She is one of four girls representing California in the barrel racing event.

The National High School Finals Rodeo is the world's largest rodeo, with over $200,000 in prize money and over $350,000 in scholarships. The rodeo features more than 1,750 contestants from 43 states, five Canadian provinces, and Australia.

The rodeo will be streamed live at www.nhsratv.com/ on from July 16 to 22. Please wish Hailey Finnegan and Beach Cat the best of luck!

Jack Vassar

Jack "Jaspar" Edward Vassar of Willits passed away June 20, 2017 at the age of 76. He was born July 18, 1940 to Henry Edward and Zelma "Haia" Vassar in Ukiah, CA. He married Carolyn Marion "Groom" Vassar on July 22, 1961 in Petaluma, California. "Jaspar" loved traveling this country as a long-haul truck driver for 40 years. Many in Willits will remember enjoying pizza at his Vassar's Pizza Restaurant where families were always welcome and the fun began when you walked in the door. A handy mechanic, he enjoyed keeping his trucks running smoothly, seeing this beautiful country while he worked, and cooking.

"Jaspar" leaves behind his very loving wife, Carolyn; a son and daughter, Brett and Julie; five grandkids and six great-grandkids. Always together in love, God rest his soul. Per his wishes, there will be no services.

Arrangements under the care and direction of Anker-Lucier Mortuary.

Denise Kreps

Denise Kreps, my sister, died at home in Willits on Friday, June 9.

Denise was born October 15, 1954 in San Luis Obispo and lived in various locations throughout California her whole life. We both grew up in the SF Bay Area where she became a Contra Costa County deputy sheriff. Later she lived in San Diego for several years before moving to Willits to be near our mom.

Denise was a very intelligent, introspective person and had several hobbies. Over the years she enjoyed traveling by train and taking various cruises. She was very service-to-others- and people-oriented ... always there to give a hand. She helped with the Harrah Senior Center and other local efforts. She was incredibly attentive to our mom. They both held a special bond with one another.

She did not want a service, but wanted the community to know how much she cherished living here. Her words from her final instructions: "I would not mind a short note that I have passed - along with a message from me that I wish everyone well. I do not need a long historical account of who I was or what I did. Just a big thank you to Willits for having me as part of their community. I enjoyed my time here, and blessings to everyone."

Her death was very untimely and created shock throughout. Our mother, Kathy Hutchinson, still resides in Willits.

Denise requested in lieu of flowers that any donations go to the Harrah Senior Center in Willits.

Arrangements under the care and direction of Anker-Lucier Mortuary.

Golf Benefit

Annual tournament at Brooktrails course raises funds for Phoenix Hospice

Eighteen holes for Hospice: Members of the community once again supported this worthy cause by doing something they love for the 19th year - playing golf. This fun and entertaining event last Sunday, June 25, was put on by Phoenix Hospice and the Willits Rotary. The event was hosted this year by new Brooktrails Golf Course operators Donna and Michael Rice.

Tammy Long, head of marketing and fundraising at Phoenix Hospice, has been the driving force behind the tournament for the last five years, and according to observer Jerry Turner, sergeant-at-arms for the Rotary Club: "Tammy has done a great job managing this event. She has tripled the revenue over her five-year tenure."

There were 10 teams, mostly of four players, competing in the tournament. Each player paid $55 to $75 to participate, as well as buying chances to win prizes in the raffle and buying mulligans (do-overs). In addition, money and prizes were donated by various supporters. Last year, approximately $20,000 was netted for Phoenix Hospice.

In addition to the top three teams, prizes were awarded for the player getting closest to the hole from the tee on the first and ninth holes in the second round. If a player were to get a hole-in-one in the first round on the 177-yard ninth hole, that player would receive a $10,000 special prize.

The tournament has a "shotgun start," which means that the participating teams go to their respective holes and all start at the same time. In the past, an actual shotgun blast into a stand of redwoods was utilized to signal the start, wielded by Gary Roussan, the tournament master for the past 10 years.

"Ten years ago, every time we would start the tournament, we'd let everybody go out to their individual tees," Roussan said, "and then I'd shoot a shotgun into this row of redwoods right here. That was the start. One year, the Rotarians stole my shotgun as a joke."

Pre-game introductions and instructions were given by Tammy Long, Hospice Medical Director Dr. Charlie Hott, and Mike Smith, owner of Willits Furniture.

"We are here today for the Willits Rotary and Phoenix Hospice 19th annual golf tournament," announced Long. "This is a great tournament. It grows every year. We appreciate everyone's support of this event."

"We also want to thank the sponsors who have contributed with raffle prizes and contributions to Hospice. We especially want to thank Frank R. Howard Memorial Hospital, Mendo Health Respiratory Services, Bear Health. They consistently through the year make significant donations to our organization. These donations go to helping families in our area that cannot financially afford our services," Long said.

Long also explained that the money raised from the golf tournament will go directly to patient care at Phoenix Hospice, an organization that "provides end-of-life care for people who have been given a diagnosis of six months or less to live, by providing their expertise toward pain control

'Transformers: The Last Knight'

The Story: Spoiler Alert!!! Well ... you see ... there's this thing that Merlin ... a notorious drunkard back in the day ... I digress ... there's this "Thing" Merlin had which looked like a spear ... it wasn't a spear ... more like a staff ... but when you're a bad female-type Transformer, the "staff" turns into a device that will destroy the world, or, more exactly this world on which we're standing aka Earth. Are you still with me? Good. So, there's this sexy Oxford philosophy professor in a form-fitting "stripper" dress (it's in the dialogue and the dress does, in fact, have a zipper all the way up the back) who's the only person who can find this spear/staff/Thing because, obviously, she's the last descendant of Merlin. It turns out, that about 1400 years ago, there were Transformers who were Knights of the Round Table ... OK ... still with me? I don't care. I give up. Then lots of explosions happen. And Optimus Prime is back to his real self because he was under a spell. And Mark Wahlberg gets his daughter back and goes on a date with the sexy philosophy professor and the Department of Homeland Security is redeemed. The End. (Hope I didn't ruin the movie for anyone.)

My Thoughts: Not since Arnold Schwarzenegger famously said "Hasta la vista, baby" in "Terminator 2" have I been so deeply moved by a film. The movie is one long commercial for self-driving cars and how cool and friendly they are. Also, it is about the dangers of machines that think. Elon Musk will approve. I do have tremendous respect for the skills of the computer animators who made this flick, which is the most praise I can give it. Bottom line: "Transformers: The Last Knight" is incoherent. Kids everywhere will love it.

Parents: Age 10 and up. The good guys win. Most children will love all the noise and the big friendly machines who look a lot like the big un-friendly machines. And don't worry, the effect on your child's IQ is temporary.

OUR SPONSORS: SEVA, LA BORDA, SERRAVALLO

Willits Center for the Arts Seeks Volunteers

The WCA board is looking for a volunteer coordinator to help coordinate the volunteers at the Art Center who do pretty much everything ... the folks who sit at the front desk, the helpers who hang shows, the volunteer musicians, the landscapers, and many others. There is a need for a point person to help coordinate all these helpful folks. Also, the board plans to start docent training to bring in even more helpers. In addition, the board needs a reception coordinator. Each month the WCA holds an opening reception for the artists. The reception coordinator will be responsible to make sure we have enough volunteers scheduled to set up, work the front desk, serve at the bar, and generally help out at the monthly event. If any readers of Willits Weekly think they might be interested in serving the Art Center, please contact Holly or June at 459-1726.

New Play Group at Willits Library

Starting this June, the Willits Branch Library launched "Play Group," a pre-literacy program designed for families with infants and toddlers (ages 1-4). Every Wednesday morning at 11 am, library technicians Karen and April lead families in a program featuring rhymes and songs followed by free play and closing with parachute time and a story. The Willits Branch Library Play group is an opportunity for parents and children to make friends. Willits Library, 390 East Commercial Street. Information: Karen Mattson 459-5908.

Summer Feast

4th annual Dos Rios event features 20+ Bay Area dance theater artists

Known widely throughout Northern California, Dance Brigade is presenting its fourth annual Summer Feast, an outdoor dance theater extravaganza in rural Dos Rios on Sunday, July 2. This year the performance will include dance, music, and a 100-gallon tank of water. Featuring over 20 artists from the Bay Area plus local dancers from Laytonville, the magical afternoon of outdoor performance will consist of breath-taking modern dance, pulsating American rhythm tap mixed with Mexican Zapateado, and gorgeous site-specific work that takes advantage of having the rolling Mendocino hills as its backdrop.

San Francisco-based Dance Brigade is celebrated for its scrumptious dancing and delicious fun. Dance Brigade is biting, intellectual, insightfully witty, and provocatively original. This dynamic multi-racial troupe of women proves that socially relevant dance can be technically brilliant, as well as exuberant, with down-home hilarious fun. This company dances at full throttle. The company, under the direction of Krissy Keefer, explores the intersection between art and social politics with fierce inventiveness and deft comic touch.

Summer Feast will include several other performers and dance companies in addition to Dance Brigade. Ramon Ramos Alayo, founder of Alayo Dance Company, is known for his synthesis of Afro-Cuban modern, folkloric and popular Cuban dance. La Mezcla presents work rooted in Mexican and Chicano/a traditions and explores cultural identity and social issues

Sarah Bush Dance Project promotes innovative artistry, community interaction, and feminist ideals through the creation and presentation of multimedia dance, as interpreted by the artistic work and vision of Sarah Bush. Nina Wise has devoted her career to developing theater and writing stories that address the complex relationship between body, intellect and spirit. She is the founder of Motion Theater, an original form of autobiographical improvisation.

Dance Brigade will present a new piece that honors Crazy Horse and today's "water protectors," as well as looking at the effect of oil spills and global warming on today's wildlife. La Mezcla will look at the Zoot Suit Riots of 1943.

In addition to performance, Summer Feast artists were set to teach a special set of classes June 24 and 25 at Long Valley Dance in Laytonville, to offer local dancers a chance to work intensively with Dance Brigade and create work to be performed at Summer Feast.

The show starts at 5 pm (gates open at 3:30 pm) on Dos Rios Road. Tickets are $30 at the gate, $10 for youths 12 years and younger. Discounted advance tickets available at www.brownpapertickets.com, by phone 1-800-838-3006, and at Mazahar Boutique. ## Road realities hit supervisors

Mike A'Dair
Reporter
mike@willitsweekly.com

The roads are very bad in Potter Valley, and even though Transportation Department Director Howard Dashiell lives there, he can't find money to put even a temporary patch on West Road, the valley's main arterial now that East Road has fallen into disrepair. But he thinks he may be able to get West Road fixed – in 2036.

That's the upshot from discussions at Tuesday's board meeting.

Potter Valley resident and First District planning commissioner Marilyn Ogle appeared before the board to gripe about the condition of West Road, adding she had submitted a petition signed by 300 Potter Valley residents demanding the county fix the two-lane road.

Those folks are not asking for a deluxe fix, Ogle noted, just a semi-permanent repair with asphalt or hot mix in the worst spots.

Road conditions are so bad, she said, that local motorists are sometimes forced to drive as slow as 5 mph to get over the potholes and one particularly bad culvert that has formed a barrier or obstacle in the middle of the road.

Dashiell agreed there are potholes in the road, but said there are potholes in roads throughout the county and there isn't enough money – and there aren't enough employees in his department – to fix all the potholes that come to his attention.

"It's not just Potter Valley, Dashiell said. "It's many other roads in this county. There are citizens who call me who are just as adamant about many other roads in this county."

Longtime political player and president of North Coast Builders Exchange Lee Howard pointed out the Department of Transportation could hire independent contractors on an emergency basis to get the work done.

But Dashiell said he has no money in his budget to do that; he has allocated every penny in a very tight budget, and the money that might go to pay independent contractors has been apportioned to pay the county match on numerous emergency road and bridge repairs resulting from last winter's heavy rains.

Supervisor John McCowen told Dashiell several times that something had to be done, and a way had to be found. "If you can do the work, we can find the money," McCowen said.

But Dashiell replied that even if he had the money, he doesn't have the employees to do the work. "We have to find a way to get to the $2 to $3 disparity [between what the county pays per hour and what competitors like the City of Ukiah, Caltrans, and the County of Sonoma pay] that Chamise [Deputy Director Chamise Cubbison] and I informed you of last month. Because that, in the end, gets you to the 20 or so positions we have vacant, and that will give you the capacity we need in the winter to get to the routine maintenance; and in the summer, it gives you the crews to get the permanent patching done."

Dashiell said he has evaluated the department's capacity to undertake routine maintenance, assuming the influx of new money from California's recently approved Senate Bill 1 – what is called RMRA [Road Maintenance and Rehabilitation Account] money – which is predicted to bring some $4.5 million more to the county each year, starting in 2019.

And West Road will have to wait for its makeover for another two decades.

SWOW to partially reopen coast recycling centers

The County of Mendocino will assume an economic loss to satisfy public demand for solid waste and recycling options at the extreme north and south ends of coastal Mendocino County.

Meeting Tuesday, the board of supervisors voted unanimously to assume one-quarter of a $48,000 annual cost to reopen the Gualala Buy-Back Center for six hours a day, two days a week.

Mike A'Dair
Reporter
mike@willitsweekly.com

The county will pay $12,000. The Surf Market and Gualala Supermarket, both of Gualala, will each pay $12,000 a year, and Solid Wastes of Willits will contribute $12,000 a year in employee wages and operating expenses.

The Gualala Buy-Back Center was closed – along with numerous other recycling centers and small, rural solid waste transfer stations – in January as part of a package deal designed to help Solid Wastes of Willits become financially solvent.

However, owners of the two Gualala markets recently were notified by the state they are liable to face a fine of $100 a day if they do not provide buy-back facilities for recyclables within three miles of downtown Gualala.

According to state recycling law, stores that gross $2 million and upwards a year are required by law to provide recycling buy-back services, or they can defer to another local facility if that facility is located within three miles of the center of town. Surf Market and Gualala Supermarket are the only two grocery stores in Gualala that gross over $2 million a year.

Previously, the two stores relied on the South Coast Transfer Station to meet their recycling obligations, but with the closure of that facility in January, they both became liable to provide the service or face the $100 per day fine. Store owners were told fines would begin accruing on July 1.

Mendocino Solid Waste Management Authority General Manager Louisa Morris said the fine would be for every day the service is not provided, not for every working day. Since there are 365 days in a year, Second District Supervisor John McCowen quickly calculated the fine would amount to more than $36,000 a year for each store, or $73,000 a year for both stores, if the service is not provided.

Supervisor Dan Gjerde said he felt confident the arrangement would be temporary. There is a hope that Cal Recycle – the agency which governs recycling in California – will change the law, either by raising the dollar threshold for when the responsibility kicks in, or by expanding the mileage requirement, so basic recycling services could be provided a little further from the center of town.

If the state expands the distance from the center of town within which the buy-back service must be provided, and if the number is expanded to 4.5 miles, then the buy-back center could be sited at the South Coast Transfer Station, which is run by SWOW and is located 4.4 miles from the center of Gualala.

If that happens, the estimated cost of providing the service would decline from $48,000 a year to $34,000 a year.

McCowen floated a proposal under which, should the South Coast Transfer Station be allowed to be the location of the buy-back center, the two markets would continue to pay $12,000 a year each, and the county and SWOW would split the remainder. The remainder being $10,000, the county and SWOW would pay $5,000 each.

The board approved the four-way split with the proviso that if the Fishrock Road facility is reopened, the second, less expensive financial scenario would become operative.

SWOW President and CEO Jerry Ward told Willits Weekly he has received a verbal promise from Cal Recycle that it will hold a public hearing on the proposal of placing the buy-back center at the South Coast Transfer Station. If the public is OK with the idea, then Cal Recycle will grant SWOW an exemption, so the buy-back center can be sited at the transfer station.

"I believe Gualala will be solved," Ward said. "We will open it up in August or September. and Cal Recycle won't fine the stores."

Waste at Westport

Supervisors voted unanimously to help Solid Wastes of Willits reopen the Westport Transfer Station for six hours a week on Saturdays. The agreement was reached between Ward, members of the Westport Municipal Advisory Council, and the board of directors of the Westport Water District, which owns the property where the transfer station is located.

The agreement calls for the county to forgo collecting the $1,100 environmental review fee for an annual inspection of the facility. The inspection will be conducted by a staff person at the county Department of Environmental Health. SWOW would add a $1 per can surcharge on to the gate fee. Money collected from the surcharge, estimated to be only $100 to $150 a month, would go to the Westport Water District to pay the rent for the facility.

After hearing a staff report on the proposed deal presented by Supervisor Dan Gjerde, McCowen said he wasn't happy with the plan and offered a revision. He wanted a set monthly rent to be established, and for anything above that rent to be split 50-50 between SWOW and the county.

After McCowen made his proposal, representatives from the water district said they were OK with it – the main thing was getting the transfer station reopened at least for one day a week. Third District Supervisor Georgeanne Croskey said she favored Gjerde's original proposal, with all the money – $100 to $150 a month – going to the Westport Water District for rent. Fifth District Supervisor Dan Hamburg said he supported Croskey.

Gjerde moved McCowen's proposal, but it did not get a second. Then he moved the staff proposal (which had been supported by Hamburg and Croskey) and that motion passed 5-0.

"In Westport, we're ready to rock 'n' roll," said Ward. "As soon as the community finds me a person to run the facility we'll open up."

Two hurt in three-car pileup

Two people were injured Tuesday morning in a three-vehicle chain-reaction accident on Highway 101 south of Dora Creek near Piercy.

The pileup occurred when a northbound 1993 motorhome driven by 69-year-old Harlan Myers of Portland, Oregon, reportedly failed to stop while approaching an active construction zone just before 10 am, according to the Garberville office of the California Highway Patrol.

The motorhome rear-ended an unmarked Mendocino County Sheriff's Office 2013 Chevrolet Silverado patrol truck driven by 55-year-old sheriff's Sgt. Bruce Smith that had stopped in the northbound land at the end of a line of backed up traffic, state traffic officers said.

The impact sent the Silverado crashing into the rear of a 2007 Honda CRV driven by 58-year-old Timothy Hyland of Novato, which then rammed the rear of a 2004 GMC Yukon XL driven by 36-year-old Tana Rodriguez of Lake Elsinore.

A passenger in Rodriguez' vehicle, 43-year-old Jesus Mora of Lake Elsinore, suffered moderate injuries in the accident and was taken to Jerold Phelps Community Hospital for treatment, the CHP said.

A ride-along passenger in Sgt. Smith's Silverado, Paul Trouette, also suffered moderate injuries in the pileup and was taken to Howard Memorial Hospital for treatment.

This report was based on a press release from the California Highway Patrol.

CHP provides tips for safe summer driving

The call of the open road may be one of summer's great attractions. Before drivers head off on a road trip however, the California Highway Patrol would like everyone to remember some crucial advice for a safe trip.

"Prevention and planning may take a little time up front, but can spare you from the consequences of a breakdown later," CHP Commissioner Joe Farrow said. "Getting to your destination and back safely is priority number one."

- Plan your trip. Know where you are going and where you will stop. Before you leave, research road conditions and construction to anticipate delays. The California Department of Transportation has a mobile app for traffic information, or visit <http://quickmap.dot.ca.gov/> for highway conditions.

- Check your vehicle. Regular maintenance will help keep it road-ready. Tires, belts, hoses, wiper blades, the cooling system, fluid levels, lights, and air conditioning should be in good condition. After California's unusually wet winter, windshield wipers have seen a lot of wear and tear and may need to be replaced.

- Be sure everyone in your vehicle is using their seat belt. Double-check that young passengers are using the correct child safety seat for their height and weight.

- Use your cell phone only if it is properly mounted and in hands-free mode while driving. A new California law prohibits drivers from holding a cell phone while driving. Program any Global Positioning System devices before you start your trip.

- If you have a vehicle issue, such as a flat tire, drive off of the highway if at all possible. The shoulder of a freeway, no matter how wide, is not a safe place for repair work.

- Never leave a child or pet alone in a car, not even for a minute. California laws address situations in which children or pets are left in heated cars. However, the best approach if you see an unattended child or pet is to call 9-1-1.

Summer driving can be more dangerous than winter for several reasons. More teenagers, who are inexperienced drivers, are more likely to be on the road. Vacationing drivers, unfamiliar with an area, may also drive erratically or unpredictably, either admiring the scenery or trying to find their way. Road construction requires extra caution and may create delays.

July 2017

Awareness is the key to finding your core morality. Unless you find that awakened awareness within you then your feigned morality is just a thin layer of ego and projection that can be destroyed by anyone at any time. Morality must come out of awareness, not out of a certain teaching or discipline. Just because you repeat certain behaviors, mantra, traditions, prayers, etc. does not make you a moral person.

But when your morality comes from awakened consciousness, then you cannot do anything that is not good for the greater whole. You cannot in good consciousness do things that cause harm or are destructive in nature. As beautiful as ritual is in spirituality and religion, it can also be used to numb out and to go unconscious. And because you are doing "what you are told" by the tradition, you believe yourself to be a person of good morals and values.

But you must be awake to be willing to act upon those values. You must be awake to notice others suffering and then to do something about it. If you believe that you are a person of strong moral character, ask yourself the question, "What have you done recently for others from a place of unconditional love, caring, and a desire to help someone who is suffering?"

Yes, there are levels of growth when you have to find that morality and inner knowing first before you can evolve into a place where you can serve others. but the end goal is always to serve others in some way. Most of us know what is right and wrong. but when someone else outside you is doing something clearly wrong, what do you do? Do you ignore them, confront them, challenge them, help them see where they are not seeing a bigger picture?

It is not easy to decide in a spontaneous moment what is the better choice and if your energy and effort is worth it, or if that person is locked down in a particular position and unwilling to open and see another viewpoint or literally does not have the capacity to understand because of where they are in a growth level and development of their mind/body/spirit.

We are clearly in a time when the "Keeper of Secrets," the Lynx is attempting to teach you about the truths that are hidden inside your being and outside in the world around you. Clarity comes from a playful openness, such as the Otter has. Otter energy is very alert and aware, and that awareness gives it that ability to play even in intense situations. Even danger can be a doorway for playful exchange, because when you know who you are and you are completely awake, there is less to be afraid of.

That rigidity in your mind and needing the world to fit conveniently into your nice little box is a ridiculous assumption. It is time to concede that you are not going to be "all-knowing" in this life. But what you can be is fully awaken and engaged in this constantly changing kaleidoscope of life. And that should be enough to bring you the enlightenment that you seek to achieve in this life.

When you only live in the mind and not in the body, you are not fully experiencing what is being so generously offered in each and every moment.

As we move in the direction of the Four of Wands, "Completion," we finally begin to feel that the rule of law, order and government is beginning to work as it was designed to do. It has been a lengthy battle for all of us and holding a position that is morally, ethically and energetically aligned with the greater good is hard to do when there is so much distortion that has been attempting to confuse and conflagrate us away from the pure, innocent truth that has been right there all along.

What you have been holding back now has an opportunity to be released. You can feel that your choice to stand up and stand (potentially) alone was necessary for you to find your core and your center. There is a calmness that is creeping into the reality, and there is a feeling of potential stability attempting to regroup you into a place of better harmony. We still have a long way to go and this is only a temporary breather in a much bigger pattern and plan that the universe has for all of us, but you want to take a pause when it is offered and move in the direction of more joy and connection with family during this very astrologically engaged month.

You are strong enough to handle this energy. You can use these past moments as ways to test your resolve and commitment. You cannot go from a beginner to a master without life testing to see if you can handle the energy and power that comes only from experience and the learning of truth and who you are. Expansion is exhausting. Healing and letting go of toxic energy that you have been force-fed through the media is also exhausting.

You must let go and empty yourself from all that you have previously known in order to become something bigger. You have to let go of the lessons and steps that got you here so you can be propelled by their energy into a new space and dimension. Some tools are only the fuel to get you to the next plane of existence, and they cannot follow you there. But they were necessary to help you become who you are.

Venus is in talkative Gemini most of this month and it brings a much-needed quick and fun energy back into the mix. Take time to meet new people and get to know them. Do classes that are quick and engaging for the expansion of who you wish to become. Know that the week of the Full Moon on July 8 (which includes the 4th of July) is going to be difficult and challenging. Pluto the planet of transformation and change is engaged with impatient Mars (which wants it way right now).

Use this energy to get in touch with your deeper and more hidden emotions. Get in touch with your inner vulnerability and allow that to soften the hardened armor that you might still be wearing. Know that we are building up to the eclipse month of August, and so have fun and use the energy of Mars moving into Leo at the end of the month as a way to shed the emotional intensity of the past year and allow for something new to be born in August.

Hometown Art

Sculptors Crystal Kamoroff, Evan Hobart featured at July Art Center show

The July exhibit at the Willits Center for the Arts features Evan Hobart and Crystal Kamoroff, two sculptors whose works address world issues and personal explorations.

Evan Hobart, the ceramics professor at Mendocino College in Fort Bragg, is also the manager of the ceramics program at the Mendocino Art Center. Hobart has also taught ceramics at San Jose State University and Medicine Hat Community College, as well as private classes at Sweet Spirit Ceramic Studio in San Rafael.

Hobart's part of the show presents his "predators," sculpted dinosaur skulls with cities buzzing along on top. His inspiration comes from his surrounding environment and a desire to create narrative with his fantastical sculptures.

Crystal Kamoroff, the daughter of Willits residents Bear and Sharon Kamoroff, is a San Francisco-based artist who has exhibited work in galleries and various art venues both nationally and throughout the Bay Area.

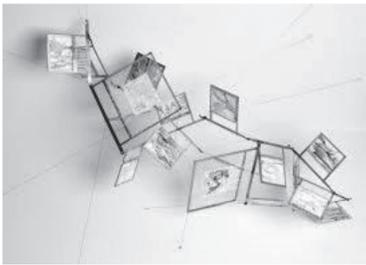

Kamoroff is an active studio artist with a background in ceramics and sculpture, and a passion for installation and site-specific art. She is constantly researching information and techniques that inform her work as well as seeking out artist communities that facilitate creative dialogues and collaborations.

"This is a stellar show," said WCA manager Holly Madrigal, "and the opening reception is the same night as the Hometown Celebration!"

Both of these artists will take the Willits Center for the Arts to a new level of artistic expression. The opening night reception is Friday, June 30, from 6 to 9 pm. The opening is generously being catered by Mariposa Market. Locals will not want to miss this dynamic show on display through July.

The Willits Center for the Arts is located at 71 East Commercial Street (next door to the Noyo Theatre). For more info, visit <http://willitscenterforthearts.org> or call the center at 707-459-1726.

week, with a report Thursday night including interviews with Chief of Public Information for Caltrans District 1 Phil Frisbie and bypass critic Ellen Drell of the Willits Environmental Center.

ABC News was unable to get an interview with current Caltrans District 1 Director Matt Brady, but subsequent to the report, Caltrans released this statement from Brady:

"Although the Willits bypass is one of the most important interregional projects for the north coast, eliminating delays on U.S. Highway 101 and easing congestion for residents, the project did have its challenges. Bypass construction costs, including the associated right-of-way, mitigation, and relinquishment projects, did rise to $300 million as protests, permitting issues and bird-nesting season delayed the project," Brady wrote.

"This was previously shared at public California Transportation Commission meetings in 2014 and through press coverage. Support costs including staff and consultants added another $159 million, bringing the total cost to $459 million. Those support costs include assessing the environmental impacts of over 30 potential routes, the development of the most extensive and detailed mitigation plan in Caltrans' history, and then rewriting large sections of that mitigation plan to resolve issues with evolving requirements from permitting agencies," he continued.

"Caltrans did mistakenly report $300 million as the total cost of the project as part of our opening day ceremony, however, as indicated previously, it only included construction costs, mitigation, etc., which was not the total cost, and this was an oversight on our part."

In 2007, when Caltrans applied to the California Transportation Commission for funds to build a four-lane bypass around Willits, then estimated at $356 million, the support costs were included in that cost estimate, Frisbie confirmed. In 2007, Caltrans was seeking Proposition 1B funds — the transportation bond passed by California voters in 2006. Proposition 1B required that support costs be included in any funding requests, Frisbie said.

Frisbie could not provide a specific reason why support costs did not continue to be reported as part of the total cost of the bypass project. "Bottom line," he said, "the years that we were providing the total figure without support costs, that was not an attempt to deceive or play down the costs. It was because for this whole project, except briefly in 2007, the support costs had never been considered part of the total costs."

The CTC turned down funding for a four-lane Willits bypass in 2007. Stories in the Bay Area and Los Angeles media had reported legislators and politicians lobbying against spending $356 million in a low-population, relatively low-traffic area, instead of relieving congestion in highly populated urban areas.

One report in the Los Angeles Times had then-Governor Arnold Schwarzenegger and then-mayor of Los Angeles Antonio Villaraigosa handing out flyers to commuters stuck in traffic asking them to call the CTC to tell them not to fund the Willits bypass.

The CTC approved a scaled-down two-lane version of the Willits bypass in 2012, with a footprint for a future expansion to four lanes. The $210 million estimated cost at that time did not include in-house support costs, Frisbie said.

"Caltrans was never forthcoming about the true costs of this project," said the WEC's Ellen Drell. "When they were putting out the contracts for the mitigation projects, they wildly underestimated the cost of mitigation. They were prepared to pay $12 or $15 million, and they didn't get a bid under $30-million. That's just one example of how Caltrans never really faced up to the true costs. It was to their advantage, of course, to underestimate them.

"For them not to include [the mitigation costs] in the costs up front," Drell said, "is a fraudulent or purposeful understating of the costs. Ultimately this project does not service many vehicles per day, so to make the project credible in the eyes of the CTC, they had every incentive to make the costs smaller.

"From my point of view, they never took seriously really designing something that was cost-effective or suitable to the conditions on the ground, and also appropriate for the number of vehicles that would be using the facility. That's where the Willits bypass stands out as so expensive."

Frisbie also detailed new cost estimates from Caltrans of $36.4 million attributed to delays caused by protesters, including $12 million spent on security provided by the California Highway Patrol and the costs of "the redesign of the northern interchange at the protesters' request to the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers."

The temporary suspension of the bypass permit by the Army Corps, "between additional costs incurred by our contractor from the physical delay, plus accelerating some of the mitigation at the Army Corps' request," cost an additional $7.85 million, Frisbie said. And he cited a third cost of $19.6 million "directly attributable due to lawsuits and additional permitting requirements we were not told of before the project started."

"Why there are two different numbers in my mind," said Phil Dow, executive director of the Mendocino Council of Governments, which does out state transportation funds locally, "is that we started the bypass project prior to Senate Bill 45, which changed the approach to doing transportation projects in California. SB 45 went into effect in 1998, and projects that were partially funded prior to 1998 — like this bypass project and the Highway 299 project in Trinity and Shasta counties — were called 'grandfathered' projects.

"These projects had two accounting systems," Dow continued, "and all the money for project development stuff, like environmental mitigation, were under the old system, where all those thousands and thousands of hours spent on that project came off the top, and were not really attributable to any one project. Caltrans had to carry the support costs for all those years."

Frisbie said the $159 million in support costs includes in-house planning costs going back to 1989.

requirements for greenhouses.

According to a "Commercial Cannabis Greenhouse Permit Submittal Checklist Information" form, the Department of Planning and Building requires extensive plans for any greenhouse, which must be designed, stamped and signed by a professional designer licensed by the state.

The plans must include engineering, calculations and design for the foundation and structure, and address all loads to be imposed on the structure. Those loads include, but are not limited to, "electrical, mechanical and plumbing associated with the greenhouse operation."

In addition, the department also declares greenhouse plans must include "details and information to show the locations of [Americans with Disability Act] compliant route of travel, site arrival points, [ADA] accessible parking, access to and through the building and serving facilities such as restrooms, doors, door hardware, door landings, etc., in enough detail to verify compliance with the current edition of the California Building Code accessibility requirements."

The document adds that certain loosening of requirements associated with the Class K section of the Mendocino County Building Code do not apply to commercial cannabis cultivation. "For the purposes of Class K for cannabis cultivation, Class K greenhouse appurtenant structures shall be for private, noncommercial uses and will not be able to be used in the cannabis cultivation licensing," it states.

Another Planning and Building document, "Hoop House Building Division Determination Procedure," states a building is a hoop house if its footprint is smaller than 1,000 square feet, has no plumbing, electrical, or mechanical components connected to it, has no foundation, and is used for the non-commercial growing of agricultural crops, ornamental crops or cannabis.

In other words, if the structure is larger than 1,000 square feet, has electrical or plumbing, or is being used for a commercial operation, then it's a greenhouse, and must have ADA accessible bathrooms, parking, and an ADA accessible path from the parking area to the greenhouse.

Supervisors have been hearing complaints about the policy — created by the Department of Planning and Building and not specified in the medical cannabis cultivation ordinance. On June 20, during a presentation by the Department of Agriculture on the status of the county's medical cannabis licensing program, several members of the public complained the greenhouse requirements were ill-advised and keeping cannabis growers from applying for a cultivation permit.

Others, such as Ruthie King, director of the School of Adaptive Agriculture on Ridgewood Ranch, have over the past month told supervisors the ADA compliance issue — if enforced fairly and uniformly for all greenhouses — would make it nearly impossible for farmers growing non-cannabis crops, such as vegetables, to have greenhouses, and so would hurt small farmers.

After hearing a report from Interim Commissioner of Agriculture Diane Curry, McCowen asked board members whether they felt inspectors should be holding to a high standard on greenhouses, or whether they should be told to use "flexibility." McCowen added he favored "flexibility."

"We've all been hearing a lot of comments regarding greenhouses, hoop houses, drying sheds, processing houses — and there is a lot of confusion as well as a lot of concern," McCowen said. "I know the Department of Planning and Building has been doing a lot of work to clarify instructions on what is allowed and not allowed, and I also think the board very clearly stated previously that these new regulations be applied with flexibility.

"I think it is essential we exercise flexibility and discretion regarding the use of these structures that have been in use, in some cases, for years or for decades. To enforce what are perceived as onerous requirements, mid-cultivation season, is a discouragement to people coming forward and applying."

Supervisors Dan Gjerde and Carre Brown agreed with McCowen. Brown used the word "flexibility" three times, and Gjerde twice. But neither McCowen, nor Brown, nor Gjerde, had yet said what flexibility meant. Supervisor Hamburg, who was present, declined to speak on the issue due to a conflict of interest.

Finally, Third District Supervisor Georgeanne Croskey asked McCowen what he meant by flexibility. "I guess my question is, what do you mean when you say, have some flexibility? Are we asking for a time period? Where do you want that flexibility?"

"It's to give the board a little bit of time," McCowen replied. "We've discussed future amendments to the ordinance, and there may be future amendments to county policy.

"I know there's been active, ongoing discussion among four departments, so I would not want to see us take an action that precludes people participating in the program, prior to the board being able to have that discussion as an official agenda item, and take whatever action might be appropriate," he said.

McCowen's answer did not satisfy Croskey, who asked for more clarity. "Are we talking about not red-tagging? Are we talking about approving with a stipulation?"

"I think certainly we're talking about not red-tagging during this interim period while we're sorting this out," McCowen said.

Cannabis report: 441 applications, 1 permit issued

As of mid-month, the Mendocino County Department of Agriculture had accepted 441 cannabis-growing applications and issued one permit, according to Interim

Commissioner of Agriculture Diane Curry, who reported to the board of supervisors on June 20.

Curry said her department will probably deny applications for two permits, based on the results of site inspections by the California Department of Fish and Wildlife.

Cannabis compliance Unit Supervisor Trent Taylor told supervisors that, as of June 20, his office had received 130 complaints. Two dozen of those complaints are against growers who are in the application process, he said. The rest are against growers outside the process.

Taylor has hired two people to work in the code enforcement Division of the Department of Planning and Building Services in Ukiah. They will handle code enforcement issues associated with Planning and Building as well as other cannabis-related issues. Taylor has also hired a third code enforcement officer who will be working out of the county's Fort Bragg Planning and Building office starting July 2.

news release issued Wednesday night.

Willits Weekly asked Moore for a statement about her retirement and her experience as city manager.

"When I stepped into this position," she wrote, "I fully envisioned at least a 10-year run. However, I didn't have grandchildren at that point and now I do, which has changed everything for me. They live quite far away, so the demands of the job and being so far from an airport has really made it impossible to be the presence in their lives that I so want to be.

"But leaving the community that I love and have called home for 17 years is not at all an easy decision. It has been my profound privilege to serve this community, alongside such a talented and dedicated city team, and I'm extremely proud of all we've accomplished over the last four years."

Moore's list included the following accomplishments:

- The city's response to the drought in early 2014, which resulted in a very successful emergency groundwater project for a secondary source of water.

- Major upgrades to the water and wastewater systems, including waterline replacements, as well as securing the city's pre-1914 appropriative water rights ("senior water rights"). This has resulted in better water quality in both systems and lower treatment costs — a win-win.

- Settlement of the five-year-old Brooktrails lawsuit, which also paved the way to a much-improved relationship between the two entities.

- Getting through one of the greatest challenges in the city's history — the start and finish of the bypass project.

- Facilitated a very successful community engagement project that resulted in an award-winning Main Street Corridor Enhancement Plan.

- Facilitated several key amenities to the Willits community, such as the new Mendocino Community College campus; REACH; the new Howard Hospital and Medical Office Building; Frank R. Grasse Dog Park; Grocery Outlet; and the new Mendo Mill store.

- Put in place cooperative agreements for the Dog Park; Willits Center for the Arts; Boy Scout Hut; Haehl Creek Trail Park Course; and city-owned facilities on WUSD campuses (pool, tennis courts and gym).

"Looking forward," Moore continued, "there is much to do to ensure long-term economic sustainability. My hope is that the council and the community will stay focused on the broader picture of what is needed to keep this community viable through challenge and change. It's not any one thing... it's really many pieces of a puzzle that need to fit together to make a whole. The numerous and sometimes competing or conflicting interests need to be balanced to serve the whole community.

"There will always be challenges to contend with," Moore wrote, "and there's never a good time to leave, but I'm confident the city council will find someone who will be a fine leader and great fit for the community and the city organization as a whole."

Furry Friends Hoping for a Home

Loving Peaches

Peaches is an 18-month-old Shar-Pei mix who weighs about 40 pounds. She has been in foster care since February, and is ready for her forever family. She does well with other dogs and loves people. She's crate-trained and housebroken. She also walks well on a leash and has basic obedience skills. She's a very happy and loving girl, but would do best with a mentor dog, as she can be timid and looks to other dogs for cues. She would also do best in a calm household.

The Ukiah Animal Shelter is located at 298 Plant Road in Ukiah. Adoption hours are Tuesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday from 10 am to 4:30 pm, and Wednesday from 10 am to 6:30 pm. To view photos and bios of some of the other wonderful dogs and cats here, please visit online at: www.mendoanimalshelter.com. More info about adoptions: 707-467-6453. Please join us the second Saturday of every month, coming up on July 6, for our "Empty the Shelter" pack walk and help us get every dog out for some exercise!

Sweet Cali

Cali came in with her sister, Luna, when their owner could no longer care for them. Now her sister is adopted and Cali is looking for a home that she can call her own. Cali is very aggressive toward other cats, so she would have to be the only cat in your house. Though she is very loveable and loves giving kisses, she can get overstimulated and would probably not do well with small children. She is such a sweetie and is very curious about everything. Cali will hold your heart in her paws and never let go.

For more information on Cali or other adoptable animals, call Humane Society for Inland Mendocino County at 485-0123, check www.mendohumane.com, or visit the shelter at 9700 Uva Drive in Redwood Valley. Open hours: 1 to 5 pm, Wednesday through Friday; and 11 am to 3 pm, Saturday and Sunday.

the board of supervisors to authorize putting the most effective of those procedures into practice here.

"We will be looking into what are the best practices that have been used effectively on this problem in other areas," Molgaard said, "bringing them back to Mendocino County, vetting them, talking with all the partners: other agencies and the police, Planning and Building, and asking ourselves what should we be trying that hasn't been tried before?"

"We need a countywide plan," Molgaard said. She told supervisors she, her staff and program partners will return in August with a plan and with contracts for supervisors to approve.

Molgaard said she would also be coming back to the board in October with data on the effectiveness of various solutions.

Supervisors will determine the shape the program will ultimately take, Molgaard said, but she cautioned that whatever program the county comes up with won't be perfect.

"It's going to take a whole lot of effort," Molgaard said. "There's no one solution. It's going to take a whole lot of little pieces that we will have to put together. And, it's not going to be perfect, even after we put it together. There are too many things that have changed in our community to think we're gonna be able to solve this overnight, or quickly."

Before Molgaard told board members of her intentions to take arms against a sea of troubles, supervisors were treated to a symposium on homelessness by Gary Colson. The HHS program specialist and administrator of the county's Homeless Management Information System, reported on the most recent "Point in Time" count, taken in the middle of winter by county staff and volunteers, who run all over the county to count the hardcore homeless.

The latest count, taken on January 26, found 1,238 homeless people in the county on that day. That's 16.7 percent higher than the 2015 count, and 5 percent higher than the 2016 count.

HHS Acting Deputy Director of Adult and Aging Services Kelsey Rivera told supervisors how the Mendocino County statistics compare with other jurisdictions.

In terms of the number of homeless individuals per 10,000 people, the Mendocino County rate is 1.66 times higher than Humboldt County, 1.75 times higher than the rate for San Francisco, 2.4 times higher than Sonoma County, 2.7 times higher than Lake County, and 7.77 times higher than the national rate of homelessness, which is 18 homeless people per 10,000. The Mendocino County rate is 140 homeless people per 10,000 people.

Ukiah Police Department Capt. Justin Wyatt presented statistics which demonstrated that, in Ukiah, the homeless take up the biggest single part of the department's time and resources. Of the 1,747 arrests that Ukiah cops made last year, 693 arrests, or 40 percent, were of homeless people, Wyatt said. Of those arrested, 32 percent were people who had residences in Ukiah, 19 percent were people who lived at some other fixed address in the county, and 9 percent were people who had a permanent residence in some other county or state.

Wyatt said fielding phone calls dealing with complaints about homeless people made up 11 percent of the 2,556 telephone calls the department received last year. Each of those took an average of one hour. There was an average of seven calls per day, taking up seven hours a day or 213 hours per month.

and supporting the family through the dying process and through the grief process after the loved one has passed away, making the patient as comfortable as possible through the end of their life."

"In the 25 years that I've been in hospice," Hott said, "we've helped about 4,000 people with end-of-life issues and their families. It's been a real honor, and at times very sad, and at times a pleasure. Part of the money that is raised here goes to that group of people that are in-between, or that a son is down in Bakersfield and a dad or mom is dying, and we're able to get them a bus ticket to come up here and be with them."

"It's discretionary money, that if we didn't have it, some of these things we do wouldn't happen," he said. "What is raised here in this golf tournament is used very carefully and goes to people who really need it. Thank you so much."

Mike Smith then instructed the players: "Almost golf time. Scattered around the course, we have signs. Those holes, if you get a hole-in-one, you win the prize that's on the card there." He went on to explain the hole-in-one and closest-to-the-hole contests and what to do in case of a tie, then concluded with, "Let's play golf."

No one ended up with a hole-in-one, but Dave Mendez won closest-to-the-hole on hole one and Matt Herman won closest-to-the-hole on hole 18. The first-place winners of the golf tournament were Nat and Shawna Collicott, and Tom and Matt Herman. Second-place winners were Mike Smith, John Fliesach, Randy Weston and David Mann. Third-place winners were Mike and Terry Driscoll, Mike Rice and Rusty Swearingin.

In the end, money was raised for a good cause, fun was raised for all the participants, and awareness of a great organization was raised for all.

We had other artists and volunteers let us know that they want to clear out their art studios too! The WCA will consider making this an annual affair. For now we are busy starting our ceramics classes, gearing up for Art Camp for Kids, and planning the next gallery show of sculptors, Crystal Kamoroff and Evan Hobart. Our quilt show was a huge success! Thank you Willits for supporting the arts.

release the vote count that is completed by the end of Election Day and the Certified Election result when the canvass is complete. There are no counts released between these two dates. This November 2016 election, 31% of all votes cast were tallied and reported by the end of Election Day. In 2006, the former Registrar announced election results on election night; in 2016, final certified results were posted late in the evening December 1, 2016 on the County website, 24 days after the election.

The method of tabulating votes requires the use of antiquated memory cards. Each election result currently requires the use of 36-50 cards. The Grand Jury was informed that these cards cost $100 each. That means that each update count would cost up to $5,000. According to the Registrar of Voters there are currently no State approved replacement tabulating machines.

The counting procedure we observed, excluding provisional ballots, consisted of the following steps:

- opening the ballot envelopes
- tearing off the privacy flap
- scanning individual ballot barcode by hand wand
- visual verification of voter signature individually by staff comparison on computer screen
- sorting of ballots by precinct
- ballots stored and secured
- separated spoiled ballots
- ballot re-creation
- ballots by precinct scanned for count

Senate Bill 450: California Voter's Choice Act

The State further addressed the requirements of HAVA in 2016 with the passage of Senate Bill 450 (SB 450). This bill will essentially convert all ballots to mail-in ballots.

The Legislature is allowing each county to opt in or out of the provisions of the bill.

SB 450 provides for the elimination of precinct polling places as we currently know them. Instead, the County would have six voting centers. Two of these centers would be open for 10 days prior to the election and on Election Day. The other four centers would open 3 days prior to the election and on Election Day.

Each voting center would be required to have computers that generate a ballot for each the highway signs. After less than a week, Phoenix had already heard from two different tables of customers that they turned off the highway into Willits because they saw the La Siciliana signage.

"I knew I had to advertise on the highway to attract visitors to come into town," Phoenix said. "I have personally made a last-minute decision to pull off a highway, while driving, after seeing a particular sign that caught my eye."

Participating in Caltrans' logo sign project is an investment. Phoenix says getting the four logo signs manufactured – his logo is on the two big blue signs before the northern and southern interchange exits, and also on two smaller signs on the exit ramps – cost $1,500. There was a one-time installation fee paid to Caltrans of $300, and a total annual rental fee of $700, $500 for the two large signs, and $300 for the exit ramp signs.

Phoenix encourages other local business owners to invest in the highway signs, which are available for businesses in the fuel, food, lodging and camping categories. "The application process works on a point system," he said. "A business has to score a certain amount of points in order to be qualified."

Phoenix got some personal service from Caltrans representative Aaron Dorsch, who "came into La Siciliana for lunch and helped me with the process," he said.

Phoenix says business at La Siciliana is continuing to grow, even after the opening of the bypass. He encourages fellow business owners to pay attention to their Yelp reviews. On Friday, members of a band playing at the Kate Wolf Festival pulled into Willits to eat at La Siciliana, after seeing all the five-star reviews on Yelp, and said the rest of the band would stop in, too.

"Yelp is a wonderful too," Phoenix said. "I try to ask every customer 'How did you find the restaurant?' I want to gauge what is working and what isn't. Did my flag out front catch their attention? Did they read the Yelp reviews? Were they referred by a friend? When I find out that they came into the restaurant because of the reviews on Yelp, I ask them politely to please leave a review. I mention that our town was bypassed this past November, and all positive reviews are helpful."

Chief of Public Information for Caltrans District 1 Phil Frisbie said that while additional logos for the Willits signs are already in the pipeline to be placed, there is still room for more businesses to apply.

One reason it took as long as it did to get the signs in place, Frisbie said, was a statewide shortage of specially fabricated "breakaway posts" for the big signs, designed for safety if a vehicle crashes into the posts.

Those interested in finding out more about the Business Logo Sign Program can visit www.dot.ca.gov/trafficops/logo.

Willits man injured when 'hog' tips

A 65-year-old Willits man is recovering in Santa Rosa Memorial Hospital from injuries he suffered last Sunday when his motorcycle overturned on Highway 20 about nine miles east of Fort Bragg.

Steven E. Michels was riding his 1992 Harley Davidson east on the highway at about 3:44 pm on June 25 when he reportedly lost control of his "hog" on a curve and the motorcycle overturned, throwing him off, says the California Highway Patrol.

The roadway was rough going into the curve, the CHP says, but warning signs had been posted. Michels had apparently slowed but was unable to maintain control of the chopper.

Michels was wearing a helmet when the accident occurred, but he suffered major injuries and was taken to Santa Rosa Memorial Hospital, where he was listed in fair condition, according to a report in the Santa Rosa Press Democrat.

This report was based on a press release from the California Highway Patrol.

Willits Frontier Days 2017 Truck Pulls

Locals and professionals tried for a full pull Friday night at the Willits Frontier Days Truck Pulls event held on July 23 at the Jack Sharp arena at the rodeo grounds. Attendees enjoyed the Street Dance following the pulls, with tunes from the Johnny Young Band.

The arena gets flattened and prepped for giant tires to drag an adjustable weight sled behind, testing engines and drivelines against the stopping power of The Terminator, driven by event promoter MLM Motorsports' owner Brian Massetti.

Full pulls count at a distance of 300 feet – from the north through the south end of the Willits Frontier Days arena. Drivers were divided into weight classes that spanned from 4,500 pounds all the way to 8,000 pounds as well as special diesel and modified trucks and pro tractor classes, too.

In the 4,500-pound class, James Jewell pulled a distance of 184.22 feet.

In the 5,500-pound truck class, first place went to Brad Griffin with a pull of 282.19 feet. Second place went to Kenny Kumpula with a pull of 274.66 feet; third place went to Jeff Whitby with a pull of 243.43 feet; fourth place went to Dylan Avila with a pull of 195.15 feet; and fifth place went to Branden Powers with a pull of 169.12 feet.

Ethan Lewis pulled 189.57 feet in the 5,500-pound Super Stock truck class.

Kumpula also placed first in the 6,500-pound Truck Class with a pull of 272.11 feet.

White Lightning came just short of the 300 mark on the 5,800-pound Tractor Class with its pull of 295.94 feet. Second place went to Mustang Legacy with a pull of 271.28 feet, and third place went to Bail Out with a pull of 234.35 feet.

Chet Hammonds came the closest to the 300 mark in the 6,000-pound Super Stock Class with a pull of 269.23 feet. Second place went to Steve Jenkins with a pull of 250.37 feet, and third place went to Joe Conner with a pull of 231.31 feet.

The Whip was the big winner in the 7,200-pound Tractor Class with a pull of 326.20 feet. Second place went to Poly Thunder with a pull of 281.30 feet, and Show Time earned third place with a pull of 264.61 feet.

Neither driver in the 8,000-pound Tractor class was able to cross the 300-foot mark, but first-place winner Maxx Kaki came close with a pull of 298.97 feet and second-place winner Git R Done wasn't too far behind, completing a pull of 284.06 feet.

Crossword Puzzle & Sudoku

How To Sudoku:

Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a Sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

Carnival Fun

Rides, games and treats at the Willits Frontier Days Carnival

Mathew Caine

Features Writer
mathew@willitsweekly.com

Thrills, fun and food are in store for families at the Johnston Amusements Carnival next to the Willits Rodeo Grounds on East Commercial Street.

Classic rides like the Ferris wheel, Zipper, Graviton, Yo-Yo and Spin Out create screams and joy for those who dare to ride. Tamer rides are also there for the younger kids.

Games of chance and skill challenge all to try and win prizes to take home. Popcorn, ice cream, corn dogs, cotton candy and other classic carnival treats for kids and adults add to the festive atmosphere.

The Carnival is open every night from 5 to 10 pm through the end of the Willits Frontier Days.

At top, left: Aiden tries to get a ping-pong ball into the glasses to win a goldfish. Classic carnival attractions like the giant slide are fun for adults and kids alike. An adorable little girl tries to pop the balloons and win a doll.

Beverly Henderson

2017 Heritage Award Winner

Bev Henderson was selected as the 2017 recipient of the Willits Frontier Days Heritage Award for her years of service to the organization, helping in many ways and with many events.

"I started by helping out with the gymkhanas and horse shows in the eighties, then helped with timing, set up and etcetera for the Junior Rodeos," said Henderson. "When the office burned down, I started going down to the grounds and working on the gardens, cooking for the work crews, cleaning, whatever I could do. That same year, I started helping with the line-up team, readying entries for the parade."

Over the years Henderson noted that she's also handed out trophies and ribbons and worked the back gate and sign-in tables. She served on the scholarship committee and held positions as a board member for the organization, as well as being second Vice President under Richard White and Kent Stanley during their years as President.

Congratulations to Bev, and Willits Frontier Days thanks her for her service and support over the years.

Willits Frontier Days History

In 1926, the Willits Development Association came up with the idea of sponsoring a community activity to raise funds for the construction of a much-needed hospital. Through the efforts of many prominent citizens, including Dr. Raymond Babcock, Frank Taft, Judge E.M. Whitney, Judge Fred Food, Deed Wimmer, Frank and Bill Whitney, Joe Quadro, Edward Morris, Carl Edenfeldt, Allen Sacy and the American Legion Post, a plan was hatched, and the first Willits Frontier Days Rodeo occurred in July 1927.

Coincidentally, at this same time, Frank R. Howard, the young son of Charles S. Howard, owner of Ridgewood Ranch and champion racehorse Seabiscuit, was injured in an automobile accident at the ranch. The boy's doctor, Dr. Babcock, approached Howard about erecting a hospital in Willits in memory of young Frank, who did not survive the fatal crash. Mr. Howard agreed and decided to build the Frank R. Howard Memorial Hospital shortly thereafter.

Even though the original idea of having a rodeo to fund construction of a hospital was no longer necessary, the American Legion decided to carry on with their plans for the event anyway.

The celebration was an instant success, and the American Legion ran the show until 1932, when the Willits Volunteer Fire Department accepted the leadership role. Looking to the future, the fire department borrowed money to improve the rodeo grounds by having individual volunteer firefighters sign promissory notes.

The Willits Frontier Days Association was born and incorporated in 1950, when a group of local businessmen and ranchers took over the proverbial "reins" of the event. The continuity of Willits Frontier Days has remained unbroken since 1926.

As a non-profit organization, Willits Frontier Days still operates as it did in the beginning, with no associated individual or organization getting any financial reward. Residents and clubs work together to put on the events and decide together how to spend the profits of each show to benefit our community.

Interested in getting involved and helping the tradition of Willits Frontier Days continue into the future? Call 707-459-6330 or email us at: willitsfrontierdays@gmail.com for information on joining.

June Sizemore

2017 Top Hand Award Winner

June Sizemore is the recipient of Willits Frontier Days' 2017 Top Hand award.

Tirelessly working in the cook shack to help feed the hundreds of people who attend each year's Sweetheart Dinner is just one of the many tasks June takes on each year. June serves as the dinner committee's chair and has also served as treasurer of the club for over a decade.

Willits Frontier Days is proud to honor this dedicated, capable, dependable and hard-working member of our crew who helps make each year a great success.

Thank you, June, from the bottom of our hearts!

President's Message

From Fred Barry

"Welcome to the 91st Annual Willits Frontier Days! I would like to welcome each and every one of you to this year's Fourth of July events.

"These great events would not happen year after year without the volunteers and the generosity of our community. Hope your visit is not only entertaining, but memorable. Can't wait to see you at all the events.

"I personally would like to thank my family, Marcy and Danielle Barry, for hanging in there with me - you guys are my rock. Thank you again for all the continued support."

Western classes and to have their names engraved on perpetual trophies. They enjoyed showing their skills to other riders and to the judges: show judge Sabyl Myers and Trail Course judge Nicol Persico Kunka.

The High Point winners were, in 12 and under: Danielle Barry and her horse, Rebel; in 13 to 17: Samantha Arms and her horse, S.R. Diamond Dutch; and in 18 and over: Sherry Boek and her horse, I'm Havin Fun Sassin'. These winners received a red, white and blue bag with leather logo made by Mary Ann Underhill of Underhill Western Crafts. The bag was filled with horse supplies and a red, white and blue rosette ribbon.

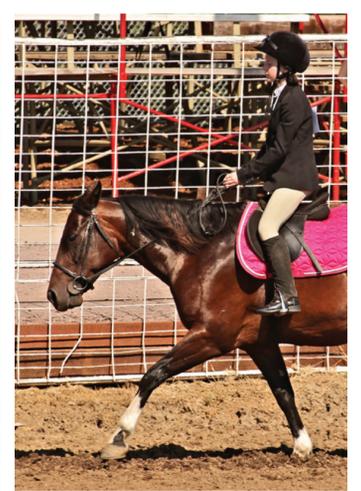

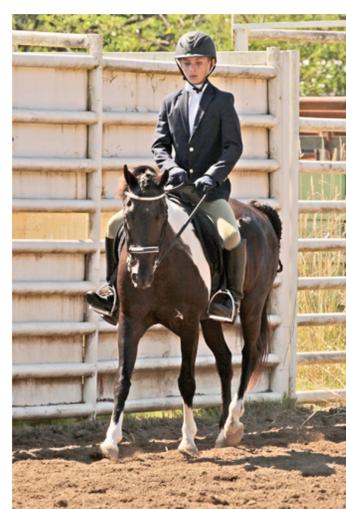

The Reserve High Point winners were 12 and under: Noah Willoughby and Buster; in 13 to 17: Keely Ahders and Violet; in 18 and over: Sue Lynn and Cee Lee. They each received a red, white and blue hay bag with a leather logo, also made by Underhill.

The perpetual trophy winners received a red, white and blue rosette ribbon and an engraved picture frame to keep. Winners will have their names and their horses' names engraved on the perpetual trophies for 2017.

The first class, Model Horse, 2 and under, first-place winner was Sherry Oncale and her horse, Westside Surprise.

The second class, Model Horse, 3 and over, was sponsored by Joan Craighead of R Horse Ranch. The R Horse Ranch perpetual trophy was presented to the class' first-place winner, Sherry Boek and her horse, I'm Havin Fun Sassin'. Second place went to Noah Willoughby and

Willits Frontier Days 2017
Sweetheart
judging
 Horsemanship,
 Poise and Personality

Judging for the Willits Frontier Days Sweetheart contest takes place over two days; this year, the poise and personality portion was held on Saturday, June 24 and the horsemanship portion was held the following day, on Sunday, June 25.

This year's contestants, Hailey Riley and Keely Ahders, both showed their horses well, spoke eloquently, and have been out selling tickets to help cinch the win for the title this year.

Maureen Moore Both days test the contestants' skills in different areas. During poise and personality, the contestants model their outfits, either a suit or dress: A western suit outfit will consist of jacket or vest, slacks or skirt, shirt or blouse, tie or scarf, belt, boots, hat and gloves. Western dress outfits must have long sleeves and be worn with belt, boots, hat and gloves.

The contestants also give an oral speech that day focused on the theme of the year's events - 2017's theme is "Willits Western: Small Town America" - and also answer questions privately with a panel of judges. Contestants are judged on attractiveness, grooming, posture, poise and behavior in every situation.

The horsemanship portion was held during the Horse Show the following day, and both riders competed under saddle during a rail class where they showed their animals can be ridden and shown under control; they had to memorize and ride a horsemanship pattern which included lead changes, tight turns and quick stops. They also had to dismount and remount their horses in front of the judges, as well as demonstrate their knowledge and understanding of the horse and equipment, and their horsemanship, including balance, position of hands, feet and seat, and more.

This year, Linda Buletti, Roxanne Lemos-Neese and Melanie Ulvila were on the judge's panel for the poise and personality contest and Sabyl Myers, Kathryn Baechtel and Riata King judged the horsemanship portion.

Tina Shull and Kathy Graves helped coordinate the Sweetheart contest this year, under the guidance of Evelyn Persico and with the help of Liz Day and Kiri Silva. Shull, Graves, Day and Silva are all past Sweethearts, as are contest judges Ulvila and King.

Now that the contest portion of the judging is completed, the last thing the girls can do to swing the contest their way is to sell their hearts out with tickets. Ticket sales account for 40 percent of the overall score. Horsemanship also makes up 40 percent of the score, with poise and personality making up the remaining 20 percent.

The winner will receive a 15 percent commission on their total ticket sales, along with a bevy of prizes that range from an engraved tiara and saddle to flowers and eventual admittance into the "past Sweetheart club."

The 2017 winner will be announced at the annual Sweetheart dinner on July 1. This event is by invitation only and is not open to the public. Along with the announcement of the winner, both contestants will give their speeches to the gathered crowd, past Sweethearts in attendance are honored, the Grand Marshal, Top Hand and Heritage award winners are introduced, and sponsors of various events and the Fourth of July celebration overall are thanked and honored.

If you still haven't purchased tickets to either the July 3 or July 4 CCPRA rodeo, the junior rodeo, the barbecue or the pancake breakfast, contact one of the contestants right away and help her have the highest number of tickets sold this year.

Contact Keely Ahders by texting or calling 707-391-0092. Contact Hailey Riley by calling or texting 707-272-1139.

Readin' and ridin'

Sweetheart contestants help out at library story time

Willits' own readin' and ridin' 2017 Frontier Days Sweetheart candidates were at the library last week to help out with the little ones during story time, and both chose a favorite book to add to the "Willits Reads" bookshelf.

"Willits Reads" happens Thursday mornings at the library at 10:30 am. Each week, specially selected community members talk about what they are reading and share a pick for a good read, which gets added to the bookshelf next to the front desk.

Willits Frontier Days 2017 National Anthem Contest

The judges had their work cut out for them at the annual Willits Frontier Days National Anthem Contest last Sunday when a hugely talented group took to the lawn to sing "The Star Spangled Banner."

Nine singers participated in eight groups to win the chance to sing the national anthem at the four opportunities during Willits Frontier Days: the daytime CCPRA rodeo on July 3, the Main Street Parade on July 4, the night time CCPRA rodeo on July 4, and the Junior Rodeo on July 2.

After each sang for the gathering of family friends and judges Johnetta Thomen, Jeanette Turner and Kera Colvard, two were named victorious. Steven Daniel Hayes of Covelo was named to sing at the two CCPRA rodeos, and Willits' Hanna Willoughby was chosen to sing for the Junior Rodeo and the Main Street Parade.

Hayes was an America's Got Talent contestant in 2013 and auditioned again in 2017. Hays was a contestant on "The Voice" in 2016 and also auditioned again in 2017. From 2002 to 2004, Hayes sang in Nashville, Tennessee under the Kitty Wells label.

"I'm very honored and humbled to be a part of Willits Frontier Days this year," said Hayes. "I'm happy to be getting back into singing and getting back on my feet after returning from Nashville, and singing the National Anthem is something I'm very excited to do. After spending a lot of time in the South, I was inspired by their patriotism, we can use some more of that here in California. I'm proud to be from Round Valley and Covelo, and am excited to perform for the events this year."

Willoughby has had experience singing in public over the years and enjoys singing in her church choir.

"I love music," Willoughby said, "and have enjoyed taking singing classes at the local college as well as singing at my church, Bible Baptist Church.

"This year is the 90th year since my great-grandmother, Martha May Kelton, was the Willits Frontier Days sweetheart, and I thought it would be a fun experience to try out for the national anthem contest and be a part of Frontier Days too," Willoughby said. "Everyone did such a great job singing, and hearing that I got second place was such an honor! I am so excited to be able to sing for the parade and the junior rodeo!"

In addition to the winners, singers included: James Johnson; Erin Mendoza, who teaches choir and singing at the Willits Charter School and gives voice lessons; David Walstad; Dawn McClelland, who has sang off and on at the Willits Community Christmas Chorale and spent time singing with the Willits High School Jazz Choir in the 1990s; Kelley Labus; Camryn Johnson; and duo Julia and Lilian Hardy. The Hardy sisters were previous winners of the National Anthem Contest. They have sung at the Hometown Celebration in years past, and plan to sing at the Loose Caboose Café.

"We had a lot of contestants that were all amazing singers this year," said Willits Frontier Days volunteer and anthem committee chair Kera Colvard. "It took some time to pick the winners! I want to thank everyone who came to sing, and hope to see you again next year."

The National Anthem contest was recorded live and is available to watch online. Log onto Facebook.com and look under "Willits Frontier Days Rodeo" for the live-recorded video. You can hear each singer perform as they did for the judges. The announcement of the winner is in a separate video posted just after.

Come see the two winners sing on July 2, 3 and 4.
